

Agata Dulnik, Ed.D.

Dr. Dulnik holds a doctorate in education, an MBA degree, a Master's degree in psychology, a Master's degree in negotiation and conflict resolution. She is a trained mediator and negotiator with an executive Master Coach certification from the prestigious Behavioral Institute in Sydney, Australia. She is president of her own coaching practice. In her work, she merges transformational and behavioral coaching techniques to quickly facilitate sustainable change.

Experience/Background

Dr. Dulnik was born in Warsaw, Poland, but spent her childhood traveling throughout Europe and Asia, living in countries such as Switzerland and India. Upon arriving in the United States as a teenager, Dr. Dulnik attended American universities having been mentored by some of the most well-known and provocative teachers in the field of adult learning, change management, organizational learning and leadership.

True to her social science background, Dr. Dulnik began her career working as a psychotherapist, only to discover that conventional therapies lacked a sense of forward-orientation and the structured approach to change she wanted to offer her highly functioning clients.

Giving her career a new direction Agata joined a major U.S. corporation to work in human resources. Dr. Dulnik quickly rose the corporate ranks to eventually be named a Vice President of Human Resources for a joint venture of two global and highly respected organizations with operations in the U.S. and in Europe.

Through her various assignments, coaching has been a major component of Dulnik's corporate job responsibilities. She gained experience coaching hi-potentials, new hires and expatriates, in addition to keeping a heavy focus on performance coaching.

After leaving the corporate world, Dr. Dulnik began her own coaching practice, Executive Value Solutions, LLC.
